Report

From the Directors

Dear Friend of the Miller Center:

You are likely to notice a slightly different look and feel to the 2016 Miller Center Annual Report. Rather than write extensively about our countless programs, we want to acknowledge you, our most loyal and committed benefactors, and demonstrate the value of your philanthropy. We take seriously our responsibility to earn your trust and thank all of our friends for their very meaningful contributions.

Given the current climate, we are particularly proud of our community of supporters, who understand that the need for a nonpartisan convening space for civil discourse is greater than ever. While the Miller Center does not shy away from argument, we believe that today's controversies require fundamentally sound and nonpartisan examination by leading scholars and practitioners. As we reflect on the remarkably productive year captured in these pages, we are proud we have stayed true to the principles established with our founding forty-one years ago: that American democracy depends on honest investigation, historical understanding, and respectful dialogue. Thanks to your continued support, those values resonate here at the University of Virginia, in Charlottesville, and beyond.

We thank you for being part of our engaged Miller Center family, and we hope you will continue to enjoy our programs—and follow us online and via social media. As we look ahead to a new presidential administration, we also hope you will enjoy recalling some of the more memorable Miller Center activities over the course of the past year.

With thanks,

Bill Antholis

The Miller Center is a nonpartisan affiliate of the University of Virginia that specializes in presidential scholarship, political history, and public policy. We seek to inspire America's leaders with critical insights, especially on the presidency, that advance democratic institutions and the public good.

2015–16

A Year of High-Impact Events

The Miller Center takes pride in its role as a convener of civil discourse among citizens, scholars, and the leaders of today—and tomorrow. Over the past year, we hosted more than sixty events here at the Center, elsewhere at the University of Virginia, and in Washington, D.C., from American Forum programs with presidential candidates, scholars, and journalists to intimate “Flash Seminars” with UVA undergraduates.

American Forum

American Forum is the Miller Center’s weekly nationally syndicated public affairs television program, carried on PBS stations in more than 85 percent of markets nationwide. Pulitzer Prize–winning host Doug Blackmon brings both established and new voices to Charlottesville for in-depth discussions of critical issues. First Year 2017

The premise: A new president can best look forward by first looking back, at the successes and failures of his or her predecessors.

At a moment in American history when political partisanship and rancor are most acute, the Miller Center is showing a better way: Republicans and Democrats pulling together to help the new president lead the most effective first year possible.

That's the essence of the First Year Project (www.firstyear2017.org), an ambitious effort devoted to the new president's make-or-break first year. The project focuses on the key issues the president must confront, viewed through the clarifying lens of history and amplified with actionable policy prescriptions from prominent scholars and experts at the Miller Center, the University of Virginia, and beyond.

Financial Activities and Assets

The Miller Center, as a unit of the University of Virginia, operates on a July 1 to June 30 fiscal year. The Miller Center Foundation, a section 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization and a supporting University-related foundation, follows suit for ease of conformity.

The Center has financial assets held by the University, including endowment and operating funds, and follows University policies and procedures for its fiscal operations. The Foundation raises funds on behalf of the Miller Center, holds endowment and custodial funds in support of the Center, and follows standard policies and procedures for nonprofit organizations.

Endowments form the largest financial asset for both the Miller Center and the Miller Center Foundation. Distributions from these endowments provide significant support for Center programs and activities; for fiscal year 2016, those distributions constituted more than 40 percent of total income. All endowments are managed by the University of Virginia Investment Management Company (UVIMCO) in its long-term pool, which had a -1.5 percent rate of return for the fiscal year ending June 30, 2016, a three-year annualized rate of return of 8.1 percent, and a five-year annualized rate of return of 8.5 percent. Endowment distribution rates follow those set by the University's Board of Visitors; the rate for fiscal year 2016 was 4.62 percent. Total endowment holdings for the Center and Foundation declined from $75.9 million on June 30, 2015, to $70.5 million on June 30, 2016, in spite of new contributions of $1.35 million. Normal distributions and an additional divestment from quasi-endowment reserve funds combined with negative market performance to account for this decline in total value.

In recent years, the Center and Foundation have drawn funds from quasi-endowment reserve funds to cover operating expenses. These funds were established by the Center's Governing Council and Foundation's Board of Directors to help smooth annual cash flow fluctuations. In fiscal year 2015, the Council and Board authorized a multiyear draw up to a total of $5 million for programmatic transition funding and support for the First Year: POTUS 2017 project. The amount of that draw was $2 million in fiscal year 2016; the amount for fiscal year 2017 is still to be determined.

A significant portion of the Center's support comes from funds raised by the Miller Center Foundation, with gifts and gift commitments from numerous generous individuals and organizations listed on the following pages.

The Miller Center Foundation holds a long-term commercial lease in Washington, D.C., for an office formerly used by the Miller Center. This space is now subleased.

Beginning and ending cash balances include funds that are restricted by program or time and are not necessarily available for use in a given fiscal year.

The reporting of financial activities here is cash based and comes from preaudit statements and internal working papers.

Miller Center Philanthropic Support

2015–16 Year in Review

The Miller Center Foundation, the financial and philanthropic supporting arm of the Miller Center, is particularly grateful for both new and longtime benefactors who allow the Center to take on its mindful programmatic and research agenda each year. Fiscal year 2016 marked, yet again, an outstanding year, as total philanthropic commitments totaled $4,187,135.

We are particularly pleased with the tremendous support received from members of our Governing Council, Miller Center Foundation Board, and First Year Advisory Council. They joined more than 480 households who made gifts in support of the Miller Center for the period ending June 30, 2016.

Benefactors to the Foundation continued to spearhead an organization-wide initiative focused on the first year of the United States presidency. Fundraising for FY16 for the First Year Project equaled $1,840,000, as the project topped $4,080,000 in total funds raised. In addition, the Center also benefited from two unrestricted commitments whose combined total exceeded $800,000, as well as a $250,000 gift in support of American Forum.

The Miller Center is the beneficiary of extraordinary support from a donor base that is national in scope, passionate in its interest in political history and public policy, and always curious about the future of the United States presidency. We are remarkably appreciative of their support and take a great deal of pride in acknowledging their commitments on the following pages.

The Miller Center Fund

The Miller Center Foundation is grateful to its generous donors for having made contributions to benefit the Miller Center during fiscal year 2016 (July 1, 2015–June 30, 2016).
